ALLEGED BLIND PIG IS FOUND AT GRASSELLI

Sixty Pints of Whiskey are Seized in Hog Pen and Owner is Arrested.

A cache of sixty pint bottles of whiskey locked up in a fish box in a corner of a hog pen was discovered Saturday by state and county officers in the rear of the dwelling of J. H. Brutzie, a foreigner, at Grasselli, as a result of which Brutzie is under bond of $500 to appear Wednesday night in Magistrate Jackson V. Carter's court for trial under a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Brutzie was a bit peeved when the officers removed the liquor from the hog pen and notified him that he was under arrest and would have to go along with them to jail. He offered resistance but by the time the powerful Mount Clare constable, Reuben J. Bartlett, and John H. Tenney, deputy state commissioner of prohibition, argued the question out with him, Brutzie found himself inside a nice shiny pair of handcuffs and aboard a trolley car going cityward.

The officers allege that Brutzie had been carrying on a "blind pig" business at his home, dispensing liquor by the bottle to various thirsty comers at the hog pen. The fish box containing the liquor was in one corner of the pen, fifteen bushels of grapes in another corner, a elder press was in another and several hogs were in the fourth. The officers say they have evidence of a sale of a pint of whiskey for $1 against the defendant.

HACK CRUMMIT BRINGS HIS DRUM CORPS TO TOWN

Hundreds Hear Corps as It Parades Streets for Republican Cause.

The Crummit Republican drum corps, which was organized by H. U. Crummit, of Industrial, paraded the principal streets of the city Saturday night. The corps, made up of an automobile truck which was gayly decorated in the national colors, and on the sides of which were numerous photos of Hughes and Fairbanks, and banners bearing the words "Hughes and Fairbanks."

Hundreds of persons who were in stores and office buildings shortly before 8 o'clock heard the hum-diddum of the drums and laid aside whatever business they were transacting, and rushed to the doors or poked their heads from skyscrapers to see what it was all about. One man rushed from a store and when he recognized the leader of the corps yelled "Hurrah for Hack." And Hack replied with one of his famous war whoops.

The corps made a fine impression and will be welcomed on any future public appearance it may make, and Hack himself is authority for the statement that the Democrats will hear the drum corps plenty of times between now and election day.

Mr. Rider was one of the candidates for the Republican nomination for attorney general, and one of the most popular men in the state. DRESS-MAKING PLANT IS QUITE BUSY JUST NOW

And All Local Women Can Have Their Clothes Made Right at Home Now.

The Wholesale Mail Order Company at 113 South Second street is a local concern which very few of Clarksburg's people know anything about. It has steadily grown from a very small beginning to one of the foremost houses of its kind in the country.

The product of this concern is sold through out the country to both the wholesale and retail trade. It has salesmen in nearly all the states of the union.

It has perfect arrangements at this time by which it will be possible for local women to have their dresses made in the most workmanlike manner right in this city at a price within the reach of all, the cost depending on the cost of material and elaborateness of the apparel, of course.

A representative of the Telegram Saturday was shown through the plant, which consists of the entire three floors of a splendidly lighted building, equipped with offices and workrooms, hundreds of dollars worth of stock ready to be made up and six of the latest power sewing machines of the latest equipment and design, with a force of hustling people all of whom seemed to be busy as bees, putting out great quantities of materials of various kinds and shipping it all over the country.

With this wide-awake concern in the city it should solve the dress-making problem for the busy housewife as well as the woman who desires gowns and dresses of the most elaborate quality and finish.

One report has it that the administration, in recognition of Mr. Sweet's sacrifice, will take care of him in case he falls to win the governorship of Michigan.

Stevens of the Democratic state central committee, takes issue with Edward Frensdorff, of Hudson, "original Wilson" man, who in a recent statement declared the Democratic affairs in Michigan were being grossly mismanaged and that five of the thirteen congressional districts lacked candidates.
